Claim review notes — waiver service lines

To: Javier Magnusson From: Frida Zubair 20 August 2026

Clerks complete the verification worksheet before a Medicaid waiver claim is released. Javier is the downstream reviewer and records the final disposition. The current batch is due by 3 p.m. Friday; bring unresolved lines forward rather than deleting them.

Javier uses three dispositions: approve for release, return for correction, or hold for follow-up. The disposition and initials are entered only after line-level review.

Any unusual unit count needs a traceable path from the service line to the displayed rule code and a short exception note. In particular, retain cap-limited lines, shared-staff coverage, overnight shifts, group sessions, and incomplete records for review. A clear note should state the observed circumstance; it is not a substitute for the source visit log.

Clerks should verify identifiers and times against the visit log, select the service type, enter the observed group size, and leave shaded calculation and review cells unchanged. Use the workbook's rule legend and controlled-value list when a selection or unit result is unclear.

Review signal	Meaning
Ready for review	The line calculated normally and can be checked in the usual release review.
Review required	The line is retained, but its rule code or missing information needs Javier's attention.
